FINANCIAL SOLUTIONS

Securing data through best practices

Vendor procurement for the financial industry has become complex due to a stringent regulatory environment

A very real problem

Vendor procurement for the financial services industry has become complex due to a stringent regulatory environment. Since the integrated marketing services we provide to financial companies often require the handling of data, we've addressed these concerns on both a policy and operational level using SOC2 accountability practices.

Maintaining the brand

A secondary, but no less pressing issue that many financial institutions face is maintaining branding control and consistency across a variety of departments, locations, and people. We provide solutions to centralize brand and spending control while providing the flexibility for distributed on-demand procurement.

Compliance

SOC2 certification and HIPAA compliance are very real concerns of the businesses we collaborate with. Therefore we take the initiative to comply and stay current on best practices, making vendor approval a smoother endeavor and putting the institutions we work for at ease.

Let EGG help you

- Address policy and operational level concerns using SOC2 accountability practices
- Maintain branding control and consistency across a variety of departments, locations, and people
- Centralize brand and spending control
- Providing the flexibility for distributed on-demand procurement
